

Dear visitor!

This webpage is maintained by a manifold of local and national organisations -
It will take some time until all of the contributors have been instructed how to perform their part of the update procedures.

Please be patient if you should still find this message for the country selected and come back to visit this country page later again.

Please use the homepage indicated below meanwhile.
Thank you.

New: patient's hayfever diary

Journalize your personal hayfever diary about your allergic complaints and compare with the concentrations of pollen in the air. You will learn more about the preventive measures you have taken and their effort.

You can enroll anonymous or with your name at <http://phd.polleninfo.org>

However, you can find graphs, countdown and distribution maps here (left column of this page)